

Daniel

Like God protected Daniel, He will always have our back. God is always with us and willing to protect us, all we have to do is have a strong relationship with him.

Words of Encouragement

Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, the new creation has come: The old has gone, the new is here.
2 Corinthians 5:17

Saint Paul

Early in Paul's life he persecuted Christians, but after Jesus appeared to him he radically changed and actually started to spread God's word. For this reason, he was arrested multiple times. During one of his imprisonments, God caused an earthquake and following a chain of events, Paul was released the next day (Acts 16:25-36). When Paul was arrested again he was not released immediately by God. He did not blame God but he learned many important lessons. Paul teaches us to look to Jesus for contentment. We can't always see what God is doing right away, but his plan is always what's best for us. Paul was able to see Godly value in his imprisonment. We are not always able to see the way God might be using a bad situation for the better.
